

ANC LAST NIGHT UNDERHANDEDLY PUTS RABS ON NATIONAL ASSEMBLY ORDER PAPER FOR TODAY

The APRAV team last night picked up on a Parliament Facebook post - published at 18:55 - that the lapsed RABS Bill is the first agenda point for today's 14:00 National Assembly Meeting.

There was no timeous formal communication to any concerned parties involved. <https://bit.ly/2V88KoN>

APRAV exco members are currently boarding flights to CT to ensure that appropriate action is taken to challenge yet another unexplained push to get the Road Accident Benefit Scheme Bill approved 😏

According to our expert, the National Assembly Rules are clear. “If a Bill fails due to a lack of quorum, it has failed similar to a Bill voted down. This means it must go back to the Portfolio Committee and be reintroduced for debate and vote in the National Assembly. Today’s vote is merely a decision to send the RABS Bill back into process. If they try anything else, it will be ultra vires.”

 <https://web.facebook.com/aprav.live/>

 <https://twitter.com/APRAVlive>